Introduction

In India, the struggle for independence from the British has been marked as the foremost freedom struggle in the country. Many such women freedom fighters had immense contribution towards this struggle. History has witnessed many women with bravery who walked shoulder to shoulder with men of their times Women satyagrahis of Karnataka and their role in the history of freedom struggle should be written in letters of gold. They dedicated their lives to the cause of freedom of their motherland and scarified their all to achieve their goal. The role of women in the Freedom movement is unique in Karnataka. Large number of women who have taken part in Freedom of Karnataka women did not lag behind in the participation of national Freedom.

Many national male and female leaders like Mahatma Gandhiji, Tilak, Nehru, Yashodhara Dasappa and other leaders who have influenced the women. As important and as impressive was the contribution of the women in the national struggle. The sacrifice made by hundreds and thousands of women in Karnataka formed the rank and file the freedom fighters. It was these women, uneducated and without ever a clear conception of the importance and significance of the fight, responded to the call of Gandhiji and patiently bore all kinds of suffering pain and anguish, their fortitude, their endurance in the midst of agonizing experiences, elevated the fight for freedom in Karnataka.
